iOS Development Final Project Description
Hannah Smith

This is a simple app modeled after previous projects that we finished in the class. In my Transpose It app, a musician can easily transpose between instruments. They can select their original pitch and the instrument they want to transpose into. After, an alert displays the new pitch in the new key after transposition. The user can also clear the alert and transpose new notes over and over without any problems.